

Receive news about the Missouri Conference of the United Methodist Church at your home every two weeks

The Missouri Conference Review is a great source of United Methodist news and information. Section A features eight pages of news from the Conference and from local churches in Missouri. Regular features include a column from Bishop Robert Schnase and news from youth ministries, campus ministry, Hispanic ministries, camping and retreat ministries, intercultural ministries, lay ministries and a column from Steve Cox, the director of connectional ministries. Section B features eight pages of national United Methodist news stories.

The paper is published every two weeks, 26 times a year. Four times a year the Conference resource magazine, Bridges, is included as a insert to The Missouri Conference Review at no additional charge. A one year subscription is $15.
